DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I in the reply filed on October 20, 2009 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Samuelson et al. (U.S. Patent 5,316,613). Samuelson et al. shows A transfer tool used when a transferring object is transferred on a transferred object such as a paper comprising:

a transfer tool main unit having at least a transfer head capable of bringing the transferring object into contact with the transferred object, the transfer head having a transfer face which comes into contact with the transferred object and on which the transferring object is transferred at the transfer of the transferring object on the transferred object, wherein in a normal use state, the transferring object is transferred on the transferred object by bringing the transfer face into contact with the transferred object and moving the transfer face in a predetermined transfer direction, the transfer tool including a feeding mechanism for feeding the transferring object to the transferred object by a certain dimension through the transfer face in the state where the transfer face is stopped and pressed with respect to the transferred object and a switching mechanism for selectively switching between a feeding state by the action of the feeding mechanism and the normal use state where the feeding state is released in the state where the transfer face is in contact with the transferred object (column 12, lines 11-37).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Samuelson et al. (U.S. Patent 5,316,613) in view of Taylor (U.S. Patent 5,326,421). As shown in paragraph 3 above, Samuelson et al. shows the claimed invention but fails to show the transfer head to be a roller. Taylor shows a tape applicator wherein the applicator head is a roller, 27, that brings the tape, 36, into contact with the substrate by a downward actuation. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to replace the transfer head of Samuelson et al. with a transfer roller, such as that of Taylor, because the two are shown to be functionally equivalent alternate expedients in an applicator actuated by a downward force.

Regarding claim 3, the rotation of the roller can feed the transferring object by a certain dimension.

Regarding claim 4, the roller can rotate without depending on the feeding mechanism when in the position of Fig. 3 of Taylor.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

6. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

7. The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 5-32 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

9. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: None of the prior art suggests a rotatable auxiliary roller having a backing face in contact with a back face of the transferred face of the transferred object. Kang and Shinozaki et al. show an auxiliary roller in contact with a back face of the transferred object but these auxiliary rollers would not be compatible with Samuelson et al.

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Casaldi et al., Down, and Iiyama et al. each show transferring devices similar to the instant invention.
